Hazardous Weather Guide

FORT LEE HAZARDOUS WEATHER GUIDE
www.lee.army.mil/hazweather

When hazardous weather conditions are predicted for our area, the following information will help you stay informed about changes to Fort Lee operational status and what you should do to reduce the risk of injury or property damage.

The Senior Commander makes final decisions about changes to Fort Lee operational status and excusing employees administratively from all or part of the normal workday due to adverse weather.

Emergency Notification

During inclement weather incidents, stay informed by tuning in to local television news channel(s), monitoring websites or listening to area radio stations for the latest weather updates on the severe weather threat(s), as well as information on evacuations, shelter(s), school closings, and other storm-related actions.

LEE ALERT (AltHoc)
Through LEE ALERT, powered by the AltHoc notification system, employees will receive e-mail, text message and telephonic alerts at work or at home when the installation is experiencing an emergency or serious incident. In addition, there is the option of getting alert messages on home phones and other personal communications mediums.

Sign up now

Register via CAC-enabled computers on Fort Lee:

1. Insert CAC and log-in to the workstation as usual.
2. After desktop loads, locate the AltHoc icon (purple globe) in the system tray at the bottom-right corner of the screen.
3. Click on the icon and select "Access Self Service."
4. Add or edit information under the tabs "My Info," "Devices" and "Locations."
5. Per DODI 6055.17, work and after hours contact information is required.
6. Click on "Save" to complete the registration.

For more information on AltHoc registration, call the Installation Operations Center at (804) 734-1564.

The Fort Lee Hazardous Weather Guide includes:

- Emergency Contacts
- Emergency Planning Information
- Safety Tips
- Installation Operation Status
- Release Procedures
- Recovery Operations

Available at lee.army.mil/hazweather or obtain printed copies at the Garrison Public Affairs Office.

Operating and Release Procedures

For purposes of reporting during inclement weather, personnel are designated as either essential or nonessential. Essential employees are individuals who occupy critical positions; are considered critical to the operation of the post, and must report as scheduled or otherwise directed.

Early Release

When the decision is made to release employees not designated as essential, a "not earlier than" release time will be set. Typically, employees will be released on a staggered basis within their organizations based on how far they live from Fort Lee to reduce traffic congestion and hazards. Early release is authorized only for employees who are on duty with no charge to leave.

Delayed Opening

Delayed reporting authorizes nonessential employees additional time to safely report to work. Delayed openings will be announced to allow for staggered arrival/reporting based on the employee's normal reporting time. Delayed reporting applies to military and civilian personnel and leave will not be charged.

Liberal Leave

Liberal leave means employees may use annual leave or leave without pay without obtaining advance approval or providing detailed justification. Employees who cannot make it to work because of inclement weather should call their supervisor and request unscheduled leave.

Post Closed

Only essential personnel need to report as scheduled or directed by their supervisor. Nonessential employees scheduled to work on those days will be excused without charge to leave or loss of pay. Employees on previously authorized leave will not be charged for leave on those days.

Service members and civilians who are unsure of base operating procedures or their reporting status should speak with their supervisor for further guidance.
